

Faculty of Nursing and Nutrition

The 21st Century will be a time of daily changes to our lifestyles and even to our sense of values. To achieve and manage a healthier life, we will need to improve and advance our lifestyles and nutritional concepts, as well as provide meaningful and adequate care in the service of disease and injury prevention.

In the Department of Nutrition we aim for the unity of the sciences of food and health, in a manner based solidly within the field of Life Science. We promote research and education based on a unified approach to the bases of nutritional and health sciences.

Graduation Research